To whom it may concern:

Re: Dean Anderson

I am pleased to provide this personal letter of reference for Dean Anderson.

I have known Dean for more than 35 years. I have always found Dean to be a person of high integrity, who is very intelligent, respectful of others and loyal to his commitments. He is a conscientious individual who clearly demonstrates professional proficiency and displays dogged perseverance to conquer any challenge presented to him. Dean is an enthusiastic and natural leader who takes pride in the projects he is involved in, while also working well as part of a team to meet commitments in the most efficient and productive manner.

In addition to being a role model and actively supporting his community in his earlier years through involvement in various community and church organizations, Dean has also served his province of Nova Scotia well throughout his career in the Canadian Naval Reserves, and as a Thought Leader in the information technology sector, where he used his talents in the private, government and military environments.

Through his involvement in providing academic math and computer services, Dean has demonstrated strong leadership and teaching skills, including his ability to interact well both personally and professionally with all individuals he has come in contact with. In fact, Dean has always taken the initiative to demonstrate his leadership and independence, even during his university years, by effectively funding his university education, earning two university degrees and supporting himself financially. He has continued to be self-sufficient and has maintained employment in the information technology industry for more than 20 years. Through his employment experience, Dean has always proven himself to be an honest, reliable, capable and flexible individual, willing to enrich the lives of others with the services he provides.

I have no hesitation in recommending Dean Anderson for any opportunity afforded to him, as he would be an excellent asset to any project, position, organization, or reward he is eligible to obtain.

Sincerely,

Andrea David
